Arrested!

Dick Robinson, the Negro Suspect.

A Chain of Damaging Evidence Wound Around Him—Can He Escape?

A BLOODY CARPET.

He Hires a Horse from a Second Street Stable—How the Arrest Came About—Now in Jail.

Two Sedalia newspaper men started at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon to run down, if possible, the murderer.

Henry Otten, the expert horse-shoer, was taken to the corner of Wilkerson and Grand avenue, where the prints of the buggy wheels and the horse's hoofs were still plainly visible. This place, the residence of Henry Miller, is where the mysterious man called for the woman.

The buggy wheels were four feet and seven inches apart; the tires $\frac{1}{2}$ of an inch wide. The two front hoof prints of the horse's feet were large and round, and showed that shoe plates were worn. The hind feet were of peculiar shape, especially the right one, which is called a "pigeon toe."

On the return of the feed stable of A. J. Fields, on West Second, was visited. In answer to a question he stated that he had no horses for hire, conducting nothing but a feed stable.

As the reporters started to leave, he remarked that "since thinking about it, he did hire a horse last night," and in a casual way said that "Dick, Mayor Stevens' negro, had taken a horse and buggy about 6:30 o'clock last night and returned with it about 9."

This was a windfall, as the negro had been strongly suspected all day.

The horse was brought out and Mr. Otten examined him. He at once pronounced it the same one that had been driven to Mr. Miller's house. The peculiarly shaped hind feet were strongly marked.

The buggy was then examined and the measurements found to correspond with those already obtained. The carpet in the bottom of the buggy was then taken to the light and a startling discovery made.

In many places were found spots of different sizes and which every body pronounced to be blood.

This was damaging to Robinson, as he had emphatically told the officers that he had been to a meeting last night.

The carpet was brought up town and Marshal DeLong notified. He at once saw that the circumstances pointed to Robinson in a way that could not be ignored.

From the fact that the woman had thought of marrying the negro and had changed her mind and was going to marry a man in Nebraska, it was seen that there was a motive to prompt him to commit the deed.

Robinson's arrest was accordingly made, and he is now in the county jail with the most damaging of circumstantial evidence against him.

The details of the relations between the negro and the woman while the latter was alive are almost increditable—the fact that both were seemingly in love with each other, being too outrageous for decent people to think about.

A reporter saw Robinson at the jail. He said he had been out riding last night with Francis Williams, who lives north of the track.

The woman was seen later by a DEMOCRAT reporter and she stoutly denied that she had been riding with Robinson.

John Schollman and wife, parents of the girl, and her brother-in-law, Theodore Eken, arrived in the city from Lincoln Monday afternoon.

The coroner's inquest is a long and tedious affair. There are many witnesses, and the investigation this morning, continued from yesterday afternoon and last night, was a secret one.

Robinson was seen at the jail again this morning, and while he is remarkably cool under the circumstances, yet a nervousness betrays the fact that he realizes the danger of his position in the matter.

His clothes were stripped from him last night and held to await the examination of the coroner's jury. His underclothes were not stained with blood. His pants, of a light gray material, were not so satisfactory. At various places spots could be seen that very much resemble such discolorations as are usually made by blood. The places look as if the coloring matter, whatever it may prove to be, was rubbed in. Owing to the fact that the coroner is making a secret investigation it is impossible to state what will be the outcome in this particular.

The test for determining whether or not this is blood is a simple one. The cloth is saturated with water, which causes the red corpuscles, if there are any, to be held in suspension. A microscope then proves beyond question what the spots are. A delicate measurement of the cells will also show whether it is human blood.

Having read the statement of Mr. Hardin in the above affair and having been a witness, I will say it was an unprovoked assault upon Hopkins.

JOHN D. FESLER.

It will be seen that the man Hardin, as well as another who saw the affair, both acquit Mr. Hopkins of any blame in the matter, and yet the paper that had misrepresented him refused him a chance to set himself right.

Was ever partisan malice carried further? Was ever a more cowardly act committed by a reputable journal?

And yet this is but a fair sample of the kind of a campaign that is being made against Mr. Hopkins.

It is the warfare of the assassin. It is unfair, unmanly and infamous, and if it does not rally to his support hundreds of men who love justice and fairness, then the DEMOCRAT is mistaken in its estimate of Pettis county manhood and fairness.

The negro has told several conflicting stories of his whereabouts on the night of the murder. One is that he went to a negro church on the north side.

He claims to have remained outside. Afterwards he went to De Jarnett's restaurant and while going home stopped at Mrs. Miller's and asked for Hannah, but was told that she had gone away with a man in a buggy. When the branch train came he claims to have been in bed in Mayor Steven's barn. The fact that he had hired a buggy at Field's stable makes a discrepancy.

The body of the woman, accompanied by her parents and relatives, was taken from McLaughlin's undertaking establishment and buried in the cemetery this morning at 10 o'clock. It was exposed for all to witness at the grave site.

The coroner's jury will be in session all day and perhaps to-morrow. The stains on the pants and buggy carpet and said by Coroner Muell not to be blood.

JAMES S. HOPKINS DID NOT RAISE A ROW.

But a Correction is Refused by the Paper that Misrepresented Him.

The Gazette of Sunday morning contained the following, as well as an editorial reflecting upon Mr. James S. Hopkins:

"James S. Hopkins, candidate for sheriff on the democratic ticket, and Charles Hardin came to blows yesterday forenoon in the old Star saloon on Main street and the shivaree nominee came out second best.

Hopkins and Hardin were discussing the former's candidacy incidentally and politics generally, and both of the men became quite heated over the debate, and from angry words they came to blows. Hopkins played the role of Sullivan and Hardin that of Corbett and the result was the same as at the New Orleans fight. Hardin was arrested by Policeman Smith on the charge of disturbing the peace and Hopkins' friends took him home to recuperate. Hardin gave bonds for trial on Monday."

Upon seeing the above, and knowing that wrong had been done Mr. Hopkins, Mr. Hardin, the man referred to in the Gazette's article, prepared the following which was taken to that paper for publication and the paper refused to publish it:

SELDALIA, Mo., Oct. 24, 1892.

Editor Gazette:

I desire to state in regard to the article in your issue of last Sunday in reference to a personal encounter between myself and Mr. J. S. Hopkins, that the statements made therein by your reporter are not in accordance with the facts in the case and I am assured that your reporter has been imposed upon by designing persons with the sole desire of injuring Mr. Hopkins in his canvass. I myself, was the aggressor and Mr. Hopkins was in no sense to blame for the affair.

The Text Book Case.

From the New York Ledger.

A novel idea in a clothes-tree was worked out the other day by an ingenious young woman. A dead tree from the woods had the branches sawed away so as to leave projections of from four to twelve inches. These were rounded off, peeled, smoothed and polished, the entire trunk being handsomely finished. Into the projecting branches were screwed brass hooks, and the whole was set into a standard made of a very heavy chestnut plank. This was polished and varnished and mounted on casters, which were set at the extreme corners of the base. With a push of the foot it could be rolled anywhere. A prettier and more useful home-made article it would be hard to find.

COUNCIL MEETING.

The Waterworks Company Protest—The Paving of Engineer Street.

The city council met in adjourned session last night with Mayor Stevens presiding.

A representative of the Sedalia waterworks company was present to object to the city's accepting the Third street paving. The company claims that the contractors broke a large water valve, causing the loss of a large quantity of water. Several of the valves had also been covered up.

An ordinance for the paving of Engineer Street from the north line of the city cemetery to Broadway with macadam was placed upon its first and second reading, but lost on its final passage. It was reconsidered and will come before the council next Monday night.

An ordinance providing for the paving of the alley running east and west between Fifth and Sixth and Lamine and Ohio with macadam was passed.

Martha Wilkes, record 2:08; Jack, 2:21; Rena, 2:13 $\frac{3}{4}$; Alarita, 2:22 $\frac{1}{2}$; Roslyn, 2:18 $\frac{1}{2}$; Prince Herschell, 2:12 $\frac{1}{2}$; Lee Russell, 2:18 $\frac{1}{2}$, and an unnamed filly. Abe Lincoln, the running mate of Nancy Hanks, was also among them, and will accompany her in her race against time Thursday.

The street and alley committee was instructed to advertise for bids for the paving of East Third Street according to the provisions of the ordinance drawn up for that purpose.

Council adjourned until the next regular meeting, Monday night.

Their plans were discovered and the jail breakers will be more closely watched.

HER ARRIVAL.

Nancy Hanks, the Record Breaker, is in the City at Last.

Bud Doble arrived in the city yesterday afternoon, bringing with him his peerless mare, Nancy Hanks, in a special car. The car contained nine others besides Nancy Hanks and they were so stalled that had the car left the track, the chances were all in favor of the horses escaping unhurt.

The names of the other horses brought to the city by Mr. Doble are:

Martha Wilkes, record 2:08; Jack, 2:21; Rena, 2:13 $\frac{3}{4}$; Alarita, 2:22 $\frac{1}{2}$; Roslyn, 2:18 $\frac{1}{2}$; Prince Herschell, 2:12 $\frac{1}{2}$; Lee Russell, 2:18 $\frac{1}{2}$, and an unnamed filly. Abe Lincoln, the running mate of Nancy Hanks, was also among them, and will accompany her in her race against time Thursday.

The horses were in charge of Frank Starr, the trainer, C. C. Hollenbeck, veterinary surgeon and Peter Nelson, a blacksmith.

The crowd that had assembled at the depot to see the fast little mare were disappointed, as the car was taken to the freight depot and the horses unloaded there.

There are more Sedalia

the EVENING DEMOCRAT than any other

SEDALEANS FOR SEDALIA.
Sedalia is a growing, ambitious city.

She wants the state capital.

She wants a large appropriation for a state fair.

She wants several other things that can only be had at the hands of the general assembly.

The general assembly of Missouri will be democratic, and the most influential members will naturally be democrats.

Then if Sedalia has measures she wants enacted, other things being equal, a democrat can serve her most efficiently.

Sedalia has as a candidate for the senate one of her worthiest citizens in the person of Hon. Chas. E.
Yeater.

He is an honorable, upright, honest man.

He is a man of ability and fit to be a leader in the senate—a pleasing, eloquent speaker and a close thinker.

Then he is a Sedalia man. Next to his family comes his town, and as a representative in the senate he would be on guard for Sedalia and Sedalia's interests.

Not on guard for democrats only, but for the town; for the general public interests, and his services in this way will be as valuable to republican business men as to democrats.

And yet the Gazette, a newspaper published in Sedalia and dependent upon Sedalia business men for support, lets its partisanship blind it to the public interest and makes a most unreasonable war upon Mr.
Yeater merely because he did what the law required him to do in the matter of bringing tax suits.

That is not the way other towns do when they have measures pending in the general assembly.

Jefferson City republicans forgot their party when it comes to electing representatives. The republicans of Cole county voted for Gen.
McIntyre, a democrat and an ex-confederate, time and time again because he was able to fight more efficiently for them than any republican could have done. And they are supporting the democratic candidate, Mr. Edwards, for the same reason.

But our republican contemporary not only opposes a Sedalia man on party grounds, but makes an unfair, uncalled for fight upon him.

The republicans of this city, however, will not follow their organ in this matter. They see that in striking at Mr. Yeater their organ is striking at the interests of Sedalia, and that is something no loyal Sedalian will endorse.

ENFORCING LAW.

The DEMOCRAT believes in enforcing the law, and especially the law against vagrants.

To do this effectually, however,
Sedalia needs two things.

First, a larger police force with a part of it mounted.

Second, a workhouse where criminals can be compelled to work out their fines.

Even then, however, it is impossible to stop crime. The most that can be done is to repress it by making detection certain and punishment speedy, sure and commen-surate with the offense committed.

Our police, our sheriffs and our constables will compare favorably with those of any community in zeal, industry and capability, but they are not in sufficient number to patrol so large a city as Sedalia.

No men anywhere do better work, as the record of arrests will show; but the police force should be double the number of men now employed.

There should be patrolmen, especially at night, in every portion of the city, and with such men as we now have on the force, under the direction of Marshal DeLong, the wrong doer would find Sedalia anything but pleasant quarters.

No town ever had a better mayor than Capt. Stevens, but he can not be in every block in the city nor can he discharge the duties of a policeman at all hours day and night.

Some citizens, the great majority of them in fact, pay this public debt as they do their private ones, promptly when due.

duty, and yet because he performed
it the radical organ calls for his scalp. Republican tax-payers, do you want to set the precedent that a collector dare not do his duty?

Do you want to put a premium upon neglect of official duty? If not, resent this attack on Mike Doherty.

DEATH OF MRS. HARRISON.

Mrs. Harrison, the wife of the president, is dead.

The announcement carries sadness and gloom into every household in the land.

As the mistress of the White House the American people all had an interest in the welfare of Mrs.
Harrison, and her death comes as a bereavement to the nation.

But deeper even than the interest attaching to the position, is that felt in the typical christian lady who bore the pangs of sickness without a murmur and saw the approach of the Grim Destroyer without a shudder; who left the exalted position in which destiny had placed her to take her place in fairer halls "beyond the river."

In an hour like this the stricken husband is brought closer to the hearts of the people whom he serves, and, without regard to party or creed, they mourn with him his irreparable loss and mingle their tears of regret with his.

The fierce conflict of parties is ended for the time; the critic of public acts has become the sympathizing friend, and from one end of the country to the other the prayers of christian people go up to the Throne on High asking consolation for the stricken husband and sorrowing family.

COLLECTING TAXES.

The law makes it the duty of the citizen to pay his taxes.

Some citizens, the great majority
of them in fact, pay this public
debt as they do their private ones,
promptly when due.

If others do not pay, then the law requires the collector to bring suit to compel payment.

Mike Doherty did his duty; his attorney, Charley Yeater, did his,
and they collected thousands of dollars of delinquent taxes.

And now, on the eve of the election, the republicans call upon these men who failed and refused to pay the debt they owed the county, to vote against Doherty and Yeater because they did their sworn duty by taking the steps the law pointed out for the collection of delinquent taxes.

With this kind of a fight upon him, the tax-payers of Pettis county cannot afford to permit Mike Doherty to be defeated.

Such defeat would say to the tax-collectors, "You need not pay. No tax collector will dare perform his duty."

Then as to the report itself:
If it was an effort to swindle a defenseless widow, as the republicans organs would have us believe, what excuse is there for Nat Lower, Thomas Callis and other reputable republicans going on the witness stand and testifying in support of the Hughes report? Are they into the scheme to rob a widow?

Col. Henry Lamm, a reputable republican lawyer, is leading counsel for the heirs and defended the Hughes report. What has he to say to the charge that the report he defended robbed the widow?

And then Judge Shirk, a reputable republican candidate for judge of the supreme court, he, too, defended the Hughes report.
What has he to say to the charge that he was mixed up in an effort to rob a widow?

Here is good republican authority. Let us know what these gentlemen have to say as to the charge that Joe Hughes has been guilty of wrong doing in the matter.

And then the people would like to know whose is the fine Italian hand that has pulled the string, put up the job and caused the publication just at this time.

Somebody is at the bottom of this attack and a fair minded, discriminating public would like to know just who is responsible.

The DEMOCRAT would accuse no one of so disreputable a business, but the radical organs that started the attack can alone put the blame where it belongs.

MIKE DOHERTY collected taxes from a great many people who had persistently refused to pay for several years. This was his sworn

duty, and yet because he performed
it the radical organ calls for his scalp. Republican tax-payers, do you want to set the precedent that
a collector dare not do his duty?

THE democratic club meets at Hurley's hall to-night.

A Simple Water Test.

From the New York World.

Into a perfectly clean bottle having a stopper of ground glass put five ounces of water to be tested.
To the water add ten grains (by weight) of pure granulated white sugar. Cork tight and set in a window exposed freely to light but not to the direct rays of the sun. Do not disturb the bottle, and keep the temperature as near 70 degrees Fahrenheit as possible. If the water contains organic matter, within forty-eight hours an abundance of whitish specks will be seen floating about, and the more organic matter the more specks. In a week or ten days, if the water is very bad, the odor of rancid butter will be noticed on removing the stopper. The little specks will settle to the bottom, where they will appear as white flaky masses. Such water should not be used for drinking purposes. This easy test is given by one of state boards of health for domestic use.

A Story on Dick Dalton.

From the Chicago Letter.

"One of the good things of the campaign in Missouri," said ex-Governor Robert A. Campbell, "was said by Dick Dalton at his own expense. It was just after the Coffeyville raid. Dalton was speaking at St. Joseph. Buchanan county had been one of his strongholds, and there was some feeling over his defeat. Dalton had gone up there to try and smooth things out. He began by expressing his deep sense of gratitude to the Buchanan county people. Then he spoke of his defeat at some length, and got to the point of advising them to make the best of something that couldn't be helped and for which nobody was responsible. 'In fact,' said Farmer Dick, 'this just seems to be a bad year for Daltons.'

THE fierce conflict of parties is
ended for the time; the critic of
friend, and from one end of
of christian people go up to the Throne on High asking consolation
for the stricken husband and sorrowing family.

SHE LIKES JOHN CHINAMAN.

Missionary Baldwin Says he is Better than Some Foreigners.

NEW YORK, Oct. 24.—Mrs. Baldwin, for twenty years a missionary in China, spoke in the Asbury Methodist church yesterday before a large congregation. She spoke in high terms of the Chinese and of the kind treatment which she received at their hands during the score of years she dwelt in the empire. She regarded the Chinamen superior in many respects to other foreigners whom the United States government accords free entrance to this land and citizenship. Her certain individuals, apparently laboring men and foreigners, took umbrage at the speaker's remarks and left the church after creating some disturbance.

The inimitable and only Gus Williams, quaint in his humor, legitimate and neat in his acting methods and an acknowledged universal favorite, will present on next Friday and Saturday his latest success "April Fool," a musical eccentricity, in three acts, by C. Mr. Williams is so well known throughout the length and breadth of the land, that it is entirely superfluous to describe him further than to say, that he is now the leading German dialect comedian on the American stage. In his peculiar line, he has no opposition. The farce comedy he is presenting this season is said to be full of innocent and irresistible fun. HINSDALE & MENEFEE.

AMUSEMENTS.The Nabobs.

"The Nabobs" have every reason to feel proud of the large and enthusiastic audience which greeted them last evening. A great many changes have been made for the better since the "Nabobs" appeared here last season, and those who saw this fine musical extravaganza then pronounced it one of the best of its kind. If there was a dull moment during last night's performance it was not perceptible. There is more absurdity and laughing situations in "The Nabobs" this season than its former admirers and patrons thought it possible to accomplish. It is all there, and only the eyewitness can fully appreciate Henshaw, Miss Ten Broeck and their excellent company of fun-makers. Miss Ten Broeck was wonderfully clever, as she always is, and was a great favorite. Handsome John Henshaw is perhaps without an equal in his line of comedy.—Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution.

Minstrels.

W. A. Mahara's original McCabe and Young's minstrels packed the Casino last night not only to the doors, but to the wall. The sign of "standing room only," went up long before the performance commenced, to a house into which it would have been difficult to have crowded another person. The management desires to correct the misunderstanding that there is any intermingling of the blacks and whites. It is not so. Perfect arrangements have been made for the colored people in their own section of the house.—Birmingham Chronicle.

SHE IS DEAD.

Death of the President's Wife at the White House.

LIFE GRADUALLY FLICKERS OUT.

Her Strength Declines as the Hours and Minutes Fly By and Surrounded By Her Family She Peacefully Passes Away.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Mrs. Harrison is no more. At 1:40 o'clock this morning came the end, and for a second time in the history of the White house a president's wife died within its walls. Mrs. Harrison met death with the patience and resignation of a devout Christian.

About 12:30 o'clock, while Dr. Gardner sat by Mrs. Harrison's side with his fingers lightly pressed to her pulse, the practiced hand discerned a noticeable weakness of the heart's action followed almost immediately by a slight decrease in respiration. He notified the grief-stricken family and it gathered around the couch. The end appeared to be very near and unless she soon rallied from the stupor into which she then was drifting she could scarcely live half an hour longer.

This intelligence had a most depressing effect upon the president who had been in constant attendance upon his afflicted wife for over nine hours and he sustained himself with the greatest difficulty. If it were possible to add to the gravity of the situation and to stimulate the agonized apprehension of the sorrowing family, gathered about the scarcely animate form of the beloved wife and mother, those results were attained when Dr. Gardner, after carefully examining the countenance and feeling the pulse of the dying woman, said that she could not last more than half an hour. This was fifteen minutes to 1. The minutes flew past, at 1:30 the helpless form, however, still retained the sacred spark.

The resistance offered by the constitution of the patient was surprising to the physician and all at the bedside.

There was no struggle, no exhibition of pain, but a seemingly passive resistance that was beautiful in its quietude.

Dr. Gardner took up the feeble hand and felt the wrist. The blood still crept through the arteries, but O, how slowly. He shook his head and said that a brief fifteen minutes must surely finish the struggle.

The agitation of the family could no longer be controlled and realizing his utter helplessness to longer cope with her formidable foe, and from consideration for the sacredness of such grief as this as the physician and friend bowed his head and passed out of the door.

Outside of the threshold he took his station and waited. It was not a long time. The minutes flew like seconds and suddenly there was an expression of heart stricken woe and the end had come. The president was beside his dying wife, as he had been for nine hours continuously, and his were the last loved features her eyes had dwelt upon.
Her breath was labored and very slow.
As the hands of the clock crept toward the next hour it grew fainter yet and less frequent, and as the time-piece marked the hour of 1:40 o'clock there was an interruption of the feeble breath, a resumption and then a stop, this time to be the last. Life had gone out peacefully and quietly, and without pain.

All of the family in Washington were present at the death bed except the three little grandchildren and the venerable Dr. Scott, the father of Mrs.
Harrison. They were: President Harrison, Mr. and Mrs. McKee, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Harrison, Lieut. and Mrs. Parker, Mrs. Dimmick and Mrs.
Newcomer. In addition Mrs. Harrison's faithful maid, Josephine, and Miss Davis, the trained nurse, were in the room.

The members of the family spent a few minutes around the lifeless clay.

When they emerged with sorrowful faces the president retired immediately to his own room and closed the door,</

SHOP AND RAIL.ITEMS OF INTEREST TO LOCAL TRAINERS

News About Different Roads, Employers and Employees.

A special train carrying the directors and other officials of the M., K. & T. came in from the north at 5:30 this morning and passed south on a general tour of inspection over the road.

The gross earnings of the M., K. & T. for the month of September footed up $6,871,150 as against $6,723,501, for the corresponding month of last year, showing an increase of $146,549 in favor of last month.

The annual report of the M., K. & T. railroad company, which was filed with the state board of railroad commissioners at Topeka Thursday, makes the following statement for the year ending June 30th, 1892: Gross earnings from operation, $9,750,503.60; operating expenses, $7,030,620.02; income from operation, $2,719,942.84; total passenger earnings, $2,286,818.84; total freight earnings, $7,319,911.77.

COUPLED FURNISH A PALACE.

So Magnificent is the Stock of a Prominent Sedalia Business House.

It is seldom that a writer has so agreeable a task as that of describing the great queensware and glassware house of D. J. Holcomb. So exhaustive and complete in every detail is the stock and appointments of his store, that one could write a book and then fail to describe all the things worth seeing.

His business building in its entirety is 307 feet long and has a fronting on both Main and Second streets, the upper floors being continuously connected by a large archway. This arrangement gives the immense space of 27,400 square feet of floorings.

The Main street floor, No. 113, is filled mostly with house furnishing goods, such as willow ware, baskets, tables, baby buggies, chairs, etc. The wooden ware is extensive, and includes everything that could possibly be needed in a household. The novelties in this department are so numerous that nothing short of a visit will give one an adequate idea of it.

It is to the store, No. 114 West Second street, that one turns with more than ordinary interest. Are you a lover of art? Do you admire the most exquisite perfection of color, shape and execution? If you are, a visit to this department will well repay you. The collection of cut glass, decorated china, fancy bisque figures, etc., has never been equaled before in Sedalia. There are over 200 different designs of hanging lamps, all of them beautiful and highly ornamental.

As the winter nights come on, nothing can add more to the cheerfulness of the fireside than a good lamp. The piano, students' and banquet lamps are of the latest designs. The silverware and table cutlery is of the finest quality and is sold at inviting prices. Over 100 styles of dinner sets, valued at $10 to $125, afford an easy selection. Mr. Holcomb and his clerks are always ready and glad to show you through the store and you should not fail to call.

He Is Needed.

Ben Applegate, manager of the Mercantile Detective agency, of St. Louis, is in town. Mr. Applegate is a detective of great experience and ability and is desirous of starting an office in Sedalia. This is something that would be welcomed by the people of Sedalia and it is to be hoped that Mr. Applegate will conclude to look favorably upon the matter. It would stand every law abiding and peace loving citizen to lend every co-operation that will tend to assist an enterprise for improving the moral condition of the city.
